

*~*~ Pagan Packs Faire Guest Etiquette~*~*

Pagan Packs hopes that everyone who joins us for our free online faires enjoys their visit and the fellowship that we share. Meeting actual online vendors as well as taking advantage of their generous offerings of specials and free prizes from the comfort of your home is truly unique.

Vendors that have registered for our faires are held to a high standard of ethics and work hard at pleasing their customers. We are proud to boast that everyone who has attended our faires and/or bought wares from our vendors has been more than satisfied. No complaint has ever been lodged and we intend to maintain that.

While at the faire, please feel free to ask questions of the vendors representing their businesses. At some points they will give a short presentation and take you to their site where you can drool over multitudes of products that in some cases represent some of the best talent found on the internet today.

During your visit, we do ask that you respect others in the faire. Please refrain from negativity and if you find someone offensive, please feel free to contact a faire administrator/moderator for mediation. If you are being bothered in any way outside of the faire please let us know.

Feel free to play all the games that are offered during the faire. Our vendors are happy to extend a chance to sample their goodies and we have a great time playing. We do ask that should you have stumbled upon a "lucky" day that you share the wealth. In other words, please play to win but after winning a prize, please consider giving the second one to someone who is having a "not so lucky day". If you are having a "really lucky" day, a moderator will ask you to choose someone to take your trip to the "Broom Closet" or choose one for you should you already have been the recipient of two prizes. Pagan generosity and the good karma it brings speaks volumes

If you own a business and would like to participate we would love to have you be a part of our faires and business group. But if you are NOT registered for the faire we ask that you refrain from any form of advertising. If you would like more information on being involved or becoming a member you can contact one of the faire administrators via the PM environment. There are also several locations on the main Pagan Packs website that provide such information. Any type of unapproved advertising could cause a visitor to be expelled from the faire and we surely don't want that. If you have wares to sell we can help you do it....please contact us first.

If you need any assistance while at the faire please contact one of our administrators. We're more than willing to help you get the most out of your time spent with us. No question is unanswered.

Pagan Packs is a wonderful group of dedicated and honest small business owners who respect their customers and maintain a level of integrity second to none. Our hope is that each time you attend a faire you not only find items you need at exclusive prices but that you discover some you never knew were available while enjoying the atmosphere of sincerity, integrity and love.

Thank you for visiting. Happy shopping!
Brightest of blessings from all of us to you.
